RE: Mrs. Alannah Lendt

To whom it may concern:

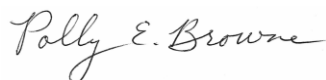

It is my distinct pleasure to wholeheartedly recommend Mrs. Alannah Lendt as a classroom teacher for any subject at any grade level.

I have known Mrs. Lendt well during her past four years here at Bethany Lutheran College. She has been my student in several education classes as well as my academic advisee, and I have been in communication with her outside of class on many occasions. She has a broad knowledge base and is an intelligent, life-long learner. Among Alannah's many teaching strengths is her ability to communicate effectively and clearly. Moreover, she recognizes teachable moments and how to get children to think, primarily by asking thought-provoking questions. She genuinely is concerned whether her students are actually learning and progressing. Her lesson planning is exceptional.

Mrs. Lendt has a quiet, gentle demeanor, yet commands respect and expects her students to work up to their potential. Students in Mrs. Lendt's class are positively regarded, and they, in turn, affectionately appreciate and respect her. Likewise, her classmates and colleagues appreciate her low-key, warm personality; her sense of humor; and her openness to ideas and collaboration.

In sum, Mrs. Alannah Lendt is a talented young woman who exemplifies all of the qualities one would desire in a teacher. In fact, she excels in several areas: reliability, dependability, communication skills, professionalism, and creativity. She is highly regarded and respected by her professors and her fellow students at Bethany. Personally, I would want Mrs. Alannah Lendt on my team of educators if I were in an elementary school. It has been a joy and a privilege for me to work with her here at Bethany Lutheran College, and I am confident without a shadow of a doubt that she will be an exceptional teacher and role model.

Sincerely,

Polly E. Browne, Ph.D.
